(Copyright, 1893, by the United Press.) LONDON, October II.—The Parnellites under the leadership of John and William end, are preparing to make Couble ngain for Gladstone. Unless the govern bill giving financial aid to evicted tenant in Ireland they will withdraw their sup port from the Cabinet. Several anti-Par ellites, moreover, have agreed to follow the same line of action.

The ultimate decision of the governmen will depend upon the strength of the Irish. The Parnellites will get their eviction bill if Gladstone's majority seems likely to be reduced to the danger point and the fate of the government becomes

PROPOSED IRISH HARMONY.

The anti-Parnellites have arranged to hold a conference with the Parnellites early in November with a view toward restoring harmony between the factions. They have been weakened greatly of late by the disaffection of John Barry and W. R. Reynolds, and the reports that others are about to desert their organizations. Justin McCarthy evidently feels himself too old to stay the process of dis-integration, and he offered to resign the leadership in favor of Arthur O'Connor. John Dillon or Thomas Sexton. Dillon and Sexton, aided by Michael Davitt and William O'Brien, have succeeded, however, in inducing him to reconsider his er. But Sexton, however willing he may be to take the place, is not the man to accept it without first obtaining the full assent of his colleagues, and this they are not likely to give.

DISESTABLISHMENT IN WALES. DISESTABLISHMENT IN WALES.

Mr. Gladstone is busy drafting the Weish establishment bill. He is, as usual, drawing upon his marvelously fertile resources to find a new way out of difficulties. He has discovered already a simple solution of one problem. He will contend, for instance, that no church of Wales exists, but merely the Church of England in Wales.

The Conservatives have started a report that Gladstone will abandon his

THE CURRENCY QUESTION.

The Indian government cabled to London on Tuesday to advise urgently that such a duty be placed upon the imports of silver to India as would equalize the price of silver and the price of rupees. The dispatch was debated in Council at The dispatch was debated in Council at the India Office with the result that the suggestion of the Indian government was condemned as untimely. The Earl of dicate, however, that in the near future the import duty will be imposed. The home government hesitates to take any action in the matter before the currency question in the United States shall be settled.

For three months the Indian Council have been unable to sell bills, yet they must pay in London during the current financial year f18,750,000. Again, this Council raised, by the sale of drafts and bentures, f7,000,000. An Indian loan pears, therefore, to be inevitable. OUR FINANCIAL SITUATION.

Financial houses here concur in expect or the United States to call for a gol loan, resulting in a large rise of the rates. The Statist holds that only the repeal of the Sherman act can restore confidence in the Sherman act can restore confidence in America. By continuing their present policy of obstruction, it says, the silver senators in Washington may oblige the great capitalists who recently sent gold to the United States, to withdraw their loans. "If gold should again be shipped from New York," adds the writer, "we shall have another scare."

DECADENCE OF THE TURF.

Sportsmen and their newpapers are mourning over the decadence of the turf. Never before has the list of titled patrons been so small, and there is no sign that the rising generation of Lords will recruit the depleted ranks. The names of men who have been lost to the tracks recently show how racing in England has suffered. Lord Calthorp is dead. Lord Gerard and Lord Hastings have withdrawn. The Dukes of Portland, Beaufort, an' Devonshire own only two or three racers each. Lords Cadogan, Penrhyn, and Londonderry are reducing their studs rapidly, and the Earl of Dunraven is too busy yachting to revive the decreasing glories of the turf. Rosebery, Seatland, Durham, and Elismere are now the only Lords who remain staunch in their loyalty to the turf, and upon them the British sportsmen are resting their hopes for better days. The rich members of the House of Commons have left the tracks almost as rapidly as have the Peers.

While among men of honor and substance the interest in horse-racing has decreased thus noticeably, the general public have remained devoted to the sport. The betting on big events this year has surpassed all precedent. For the Derby to be run next Saturday, Lord Rosebery's Ladas is a favorite at 5 to 2. Ladas has won the Woodcote stakes at Epsom and the Champagne stakes at Doncaster.

Whatever the truth may be, it is certain that a serious dead-lock exists. The situation is such that another conference of the Ministers has been suddenly summoned to meet here on Monday with a view to caiming the public agitation against the proposed tobacco import taxes, which are exciting more feeling than the proposed wine taxes.

The North German Gazette publishes an article to show that France. Eingland, Italy, and Austria impose heavier taxes than those proposed by Germany to be placed on tobacco and wine.

THE HANOVER GAMBLING.

THE HANOVER GAMBLING.

The accused men in the Hanover gambling scandal are Max. Rosenberg, Albert Hessemann, Ludwig Abier, and Julius Suessmann, bankers; Freiherr von Meyerlock, retired; Captain Johann Faeberle, and Samuel Seeman, gentlemen of leisure, and Julius Ludwig Stamer, a commercial traveller. All these men are under arrest. Lieutenant Freiherr von Sedittz Neukirch, who was installed as deputy, absconded to London to escape trial. Arnold Herbert Idehtner, a banker, is hiding in Austria to avoid arrest. The charges against the prisoners are gambling, cheating at cards, usury, and fraudulent payment by means of worthless lottery tickets.

STRICT DISCIPLINE.

A Russian General Who Knew Just Wha His Servant Was Doing.

(The Argonaut.) Some years ago the Russian Ambassa dor at Constantinople entertained a distinguished party at dinner, and after the disappearance of the comestibles, when the soothing cigar shed its benign influence around them and helped or impeded digestion beneath their respective diaphragms, the conversation, which had been desultory turned upon the discipline maintained in the several forces repre-

"I assure you, gentlemen," said a Rus sian general who was present, "that my servant, Iyan, an old campaigner, can be despatched upon an errand to any part of the town, and I will tell you to an instant the time of his return."

As some appeared rather incredulous, Iyan was summoned.

As some appeared rather incredulous, Ivan was summoned.
"I want you to go," said his master, "to the tobacconist by the bridge and get me a box of cigars. Here is the money. Now, gentlemen," said the general, pulling out his watch and consulting it, "he leaves the house. Now," after a pause, "he is at the end of the street; now he grosses the road; now he is being served.

leaves the house. Now," after a pause, "he is at the end of the street; now he crosses the road; now he is being served; now he is returning." Then, after another pause and replacing his watch: "Now, gentlemen, he is here.
"Ivan!"

As he uttered the word the servant entered the apartment with the cigars.

All agree that it was very cleverly done, with the exception of an obese and guileless Pasha, who opined that it was nothing out of the way, and boastfully asserted that discipline among the faithful was, if anything, superior to that of any other country, and to prove the veracity of his statement announced his intention of performing a similar feat.

His servant was summoned accordingly. "All," said the Pasha, "I wish you to go to the tobacconist by the bridge and get me a box of cigars. Here is the money. Now, gentlemen," said he, imitating the Russian, and consulting his watch, "he leaves the house. Now," after a pause, "he is at the end of the street. Now he crosses the road; now he is being served; now he is returning." Then, after another pause, and replacing his watch: "Now, gentlemen, he is here."

"I am here, Effendi," answered the individual, entering with a profusion of salaams.

"Well, where are the cigars?"

"His Excellency's slave has not yet discovered his slippers."

A roar of laughter greeted this reply, amid which the humiliated Pasha retired to order a dose of the bastinado for the unfortunate All.

Headsehe and Dyspepsie.

William E. Rockwell, No. 512 west Fifty-seventh street, New York, says:

"I have been a martyr to bilious headache and dyspepsia. Any indiscretion in diet, overfatigue, or cold brings on a fit of indigestion, followed by a headache lasting, two or three days at a time. I think I must have tried over twenty different remedies which were recommended as certain cures by loving friends, but it was no use. At last I thought I would take a simple course of purgation with BRANDRETH'S PILLS. For the first week I took two pills every night, then one pill for thirty nights. In that time I gained three pounds in weight, and never have had an ache or a pain since."

Disease in one part of the body will eventually fill the whole body with disease. Every year or two some part of the system grows weak and begins to decay. Such part should be removed at once, and new matter be allowed to take its place. There's no need of cutting it out with a surgeon's scalpel. Furge away the sid diseased and worn out parts with ERANDRETH'S FILLS.

THE SALISBURY BANK CASHIER CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT.

He Published False Statements—An Off cial Poob-Bah-Total Defalestion, $21,788 ; Assigned $1,100.

(Special telegram to the Dispatch.) SALISBURY, N. C., October 21 .- The plot thickens around the defaulting cash er of the First National Bank, I. H. Foust, as he was last night arrested on two warrants sworn out by one of his ondsmen, Mr. N. B. McCanless, Or warrant was for the larceny of $1,600; the other for the embezziement of $8,000 of the bank funds. Bond was given for his appearance to-day, when the trial was had, at which examination was waived and bond given for his appearance at the November term of the Superior Court.

WHY ARRESTED. Foust would not have been arrested had it not been for his actions in going to the three papers here and writing articles himself and having them published as the opinions of the editors, and making erroneous statements in the articles. Besides his shortage in accounts, ticles, Besides his shortage in accounts, he stole $1,000 in cash from the bank and tried to get away, but the directors of the bank compelled him to give the money up. INDUSTRIES. The town of Sanford has very fine prospects for development in various industries. The Southern Rad- and Brownstone Company, of Philadelphia, opened a very fine quarry here more than a year ago, and the work has progressed satisfactorily. The output now is two carloads a week of finished cut stone. The stone is of fine quality, is in demand, and I am told that the supply seems to be inexhaustible. The company now has a contract and is furnishing stone for finishing and trimming a large carpet-factory in Philadelphia. The building for which the company is now preparing and shipping the brownstone is a mile in circumference, which, of course, requires large quantities of the stone.

Toques and Turbuns-Jamey Suit for a 12-Year-Old Girl-Notes.

(Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.) NEW YORK, October 21,-A study of he season's millinery convinces one that tive and that the probabilities favor such an era of minuteness that one's bon-net-box and bonbonniere will eventually come interchangeable.

One of the recent bonnets is formed only of a pair of mercury-wings-mercures as as they are now briefly designated-in jet, as they are now briefly designated—in jet, united on a maroon velvet foundation of the tiniest dimensions, and with a pair of maroon-velvet ties. Another was of white velvet, with a kind of military cockade of black satin in front, liberally studded with jet. This, of course, for evening wear. Then there was a third trifle of palest pink satin, with a band of sable fur twisted in and out through its folds, and a sable head peering forth in front. Butterfly bonnets are many. The butterfly lidea is reproduced in jet and in lace until it has become almost too frequent to be any longer acceptable to fashionable folk. ready partially canvassed. Major Stubbs has surpassed himself in Essex. He, has followed up Mr. Beverley, Populist candidate, bearded him, and without doubt has literally routed him at every point and hacked him in debate. Beverley does not wear well with the people of Essex, and concedes that he cannot capture the whites, so is building his hopes entirely upon the support of his colored brethren. It is a fact that the Populist party in Essex has degenerated into and unmasked itself as the same old Republican party which confronted us under the military satraps, Wentworth, Breedlove, and Commadore, and more lately Sandy and Hats are not infected by the passion for microscopic daintiness. Mostily they at of a medium size, and are in better taste than usual. A carriage hat of black velvet, for instance, is developed in the prevailing "magpie" effect; around the brim are appliqued designs cut out from white lace; a black ostrich plume surmounts it, flanked on either side by a white pigeonwing. Another round shape is covered in black satin and faced underneath with white quilled satin. A loose scarf of lace is picturesquely laid around the low crown, held together in front by a big gold buckle. To the back a single black plume is arranged. Some few white sporatic Democrats, who were always considered the "Swiss contingent," have followed Mr. Beverley. With these exceptions, the Populist party in Essex is composed almost entirely of the colored people, who are fired by the locsin against and for the repeal of the Anderson-McCormick election-law. The best white Republicans, however, like Judge Daingerfield and Clerk H. Southworth, are not in sympathy with them. During the discussion here on Monday (court day) the alignment was clearly defined and complete. The writer has witnessed scenes during reconstruction times, and the heated campaigns of race plume is arranged.

HOW TRIMMED.

These two examples are a fair indica-tion of the way hats are being trimmed. The prevalence of fur in all kinds of gar-nitures has necessarily made it a factor in millinery. Entire fur toques and tur-bans will be worn during the winter, and meanwhile many hats have their chief ornamentation of fur. The distinctions drawn between women's Price is the most important word in the vocabulary of the purchaser. True, there are other and most weighty points (quality and style, for instance) a buyer quality and style, for instance) a buyer must carefully consider, but the price overtops them all. When you ask that significant question: "How much?" —our answer decides the purchase. Hence, no matter how good, fine, fash-ionable or desirable an article might be, ike Hood's Sarsaparilla to cure it. Read:

"Three years ago, as a result of catarrh. I entirely lost my hearing and was deaf for more than a year. I tried various things to cure it, and had several physicians attempt it, but no improvement was apparent. I could distinguish me cound. I was intending putting myself under the are of a specialist when some one suggested that possibly Hood's Sarsaparilis, would do me some good. I begin taking it without the expectation of any lasting help. To my swarprise and greens joy I found when I had taken three bottles that my hearing was returning. I kept on till I had taken three more. It is now over a year and I can hear portectly well. I am troubled but very little with the catarrh. I consider this a remarkable was, and cordially recommend
